Thank you so much, Mr. Knowles. That includes the three or so words we were having trouble with.

Have a nice evening!

~Jo

Thank you, Ms. Wheat.

In the audio clip, Mr. Horii says:

- "OK, a lot to unpack here – so uhm first thing is you say is I based my adoptions ... actually can you restate the first part of your question so I can address that?"
- "OK, So , yes I based my free-rider analysis on ...

Thank you,

That is perfectly fine, Mr. Knowles. The only reason I did not previously include all parties is that it is a purely procedural matter involving the transcript. I certainly defer to your judgment in the matter.

In order to save Mr. Butler and Ms. Hill the trouble, I am forwarding to contact@psc.sc.gov, as well, since any communication involving PSC legal staff must be posted on DMS, procedural or no. In my haste earlier, I neglected to include the caveat relative to these matters, so I am including it below just for completeness' sake.

Thank you to all for assisting in this small question to Witness Horii.

Please note: I am advised by General Counsel Hill of the permissibility of my having such communications regarding procedural matters (e.g., transcripts) with the parties. If PSC counsel is included in such e-mails, however, the communications will then require posting to the subject docket(s).

Sincerely,

~Jo

Hi Ms. Wheat, thank you for your email. Out of an abundance of caution we are forwarding your message below and the attached audio clip to counsel for all parties. We will coordinate with Mr. Horii and follow up with you.

Thank you,
Alex

Mr. Horii, hi ~

I've attached a snippet of audio from your testimony in the above-mentioned hearing. It begins with a question to you from Mr. Wellborn, and the first few words of your answer are giving my scopist and me problems. We hear the same thing, but it's an unfamiliar phrase if we're hearing it correctly.

Would you mind to take a listen and confirm for me what you said? I detest having "inaudible" or "phonetic" notations, even though the world of virtualness makes them more likely to happen!

Thanks so much for your help!

~Jo
